Digital Legacy & Emergency Access

Make things easier for the people you trust.

Important information is often scattered across devices and online accounts. We help you put sensible arrangements in place so trusted people know where to start if you're ever unable to manage your digital information yourself.

Work out what matters

We review the accounts, services, files and photos you rely on. Together, we identify what someone might need to know about, including devices, subscriptions and where important information is stored.

Choose who you trust

You decide who should have access and what they may need to know. We help set up suitable emergency or legacy-access options where the relevant services support them.

Clear instructions, with privacy in mind

We organise the information and create practical instructions for your chosen people. The aim is to help them find what matters without exposing all your passwords.

We review the arrangements with you before they're finalised. You stay in control and can update them as your devices, accounts or circumstances change.

Price and appointment length

From £46. Usually around one to two hours. Contact us to discuss the information you want to organise and the arrangements you need.

How it works

1. Talk through your digital life. Identify the accounts, files, photos and devices that matter.

2. Choose trusted people. Decide who should be able to help and what they need to know.

3. Put arrangements in place. Set up supported access options and record clear instructions.

4. Review together. Check what has been arranged and how to keep it current.
